SENTIMENT AT CLIMAX.

White Supremacy and Also Dispensary Advocates.

Last night we received the following letters which are self explanatory:

Climax, N. C., Feb. 15, '99.
Editor of the Telegram,
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir:—Enclosed you will see circular letter and petition from W. G. Mebane, chairman, and a copy of our reply, which you are at liberty to publish if you think it will help the dispensary cause. This corner of Guilford county put in a solid vote for white supremacy and if it had the opportunity it would make it almost unanimous for the dispensary.

Yours very truly,
Hutton & Hutton,
W. P. Hutton.

Climax, N. C., Feb. 15, '99.
Mr. W. Giles Mebane, Ch'm.
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir:—In reply to your favor in opposition to the dispensary and asking for the sentiment of this community, will say, the better element in this community are in favor of the dispensary. We are of the opinion that if wholesale merchants in Greensboro will send out representatives who abstain from the use of intoxicants, they will find their sales much more satisfactory.

Yours very truly,
Hutton & Hutton,
W. P. Hutton.

CALLING A MAN A LIAR.

What You Get for Doing it in Different States.

The Texas legislature is considering a bill which is of interest to liars there and everywhere else.

If this becomes a law, proof that a man has been called a liar will become a full defense in assault and battery.

That is to say, the man with the battered nose, blackened eye and hiat-used front teeth will learn in a court of justice that it "served him right."

The laws governing liars in other states vary. In Kentucky it is a misdemeanor punishable by a $20 fine to call any man a liar, and a police justice of Louisville has declared from his bench that a lie in Kentucky means a blow. This memorable declaration was given in discharging honorably a man who had knocked down another fellow for calling him a liar and had been brought to court to answer.

In Virginia, by the law of 1895-1896, a man who calls another man a liar is guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction may be fined not more than $25.

In Georgia it is slander, punishable by $1,000 fine or a year in the penitentiary, or both, to call a man a liar unless you can prove that he is one, in which case you get clear. The Georgia courts hold that a lie constitutes the first blow and justifies a violent response.

In Arkansas passing the lie is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine.

In Mississippi insulting words are civilly actionable. In South Carolina and West Virginia the same.—New York World.

Judge Norwood's Case.

It is stated that Judge Norwood's resignation is in the hands of the governor. It is well. Resignation is better than impeachment. This is no time to revile this unfortunate and unhappy man, but he ought to have respected his paper of resignated placed in the hands of Col. Lusk, two years ago, to be handed to the governor the first time he got drunk. His evasion of a pledge made by his own voluntary act was not creditable to him and has done much to alienate public sympathy from him. Charitable people will feel sorry for him, in the plight in which he finds himself, but he should get off the bench, willingly if he will, forcibly if he must. As a private citizen he has a right to get as drunk as he chooses and as often as he pleases, but no man has a right, as a public official, to persisistently, continuously through a series of years, neglect the public business by reason of an infirmity of habit or from any other cause, putting the public to both cost and inconvenience. However much one may sympathize with him, it is time for Judge Norwood to go.—Charlotte Observer.

LAST DISPENSARY MEETING.

The Court House Was Crowded Last Night

SOME ELOQUENT SPEECHES MADE

Much Interest Manifested and the Cold Snowy Weather Did Not Serve to Keep People at Home

The dispensary mass meeting at the court house last night was largely attended. In fact it was more than three times larger than any previous meeting either for or against the dispensary. The court house was literally packed, showing the deep interest felt by the citizens in this move.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. S. Hunter and Mr. Geo. S. Sergeant was made chairman.

Rev. C. A. G. Thomas, of Fayetteville, was present a made a ringing and eloquent speech for the dispensary. He exhibited a map showing the business portion of Fayetteville. Under open saloons there were 18 vacant store-rooms and 13 barrooms. The dispensary was established and 12 more stores were made vacant, making 30. Now, under the dispensary there are only six vacant stores, an increase in business houses of 24. Yet people say it will kill the town. Under saloons he frequently received letters from suffering wives begging him to try to influence their husbands not to drink so much. He has not received a single one since the establishment of the dispensary. One saloon properly chained is better than 12 turned loose to do their deadly work. He showed that the question was not a political one from the vote establishing the Fayetteville dispensary two years ago and the recent vote refusing to do away with it. The legislators raised it above politics to a high moral plane and that is where it belongs.

Hon. A. M. Scales made a short speech on the political and legal phase of the question. He congratulated the people on the conservative spirit they have manifested throughout the fight. The opposition say the primary was unauthorized. Whose primary is it? We didn't ask it. We asked the passage of the bill on the large petition we carried to Raleigh. The representatives wanted this as an expression direct from the people. What politics is in a moral question like this? Is the democratic party to be held together by nine barrooms? Mr. Scales' speech was convincing and was liberally applauded.

Mr. Wm. Love on "Who are the People?" "Remember," said he "that you are the descendents of the heroes of Mecklenburg, Alamance and Guilford court house, and allow no man to dictate to you what you shall or shall not do." This brought down the house.

Mr. Sam Browne began by saying: "Me and Mr. Cone are mighty good friends." Then followed a humorous speech full of pith and abounding in sharp wit. He told the Bible story of Esau and Jacob and how the former sold his birthright for a pot of beans that had something in 'em which smelled mighty good. You Esaus put your birthright into the old Steel and Iron works and bought a large amount of land for an immense amount of money but couldn't pay it; now Jacob has got it. Maybe some of you remember a fellow by the name of Moses, who was told to lead the children of Israel to the promised land. The people got thirsty and Moses was commanded to give them water in a certain way but he chose another way. For this he was permitted only to see the promised land from the mountain top, but was not granted the pleasure of going over. "And," said he, "Moses will not lead you all to the promised land, either."

Mr. E. P. Wharton, on the building of Greensboro, said: "If I were asked who built Greensboro I should have to call a longer list of names than the opposition have on their petitions. If asked who is the man who has done the most in the last three years I would have to place my hand on the shoulder of the president of your Industrial and Immigration association. If asked who next I should beg to be excused. There has been concerted action and such always brings success."

J. W. Forbis talked on the moral and political status. He had occupied a mild and conservative position and preferred to leave the whole matter to the people. The people rule and it is right and democratic. When I heard the plan projected I said "I am for the dispensary." He didn't intend to take an active part, but when we have men to reflect on our fair women and officials as he had heard had been done, it was time to speak out.

Prof. Claxton made a splendid talk on why prohibitionists should vote for the dispensary. They oppose it because they say it is a compromise; but it is the nearest thing to what they want.

Mr. J. Norman Wills, Rev. L. Johnson and Rev. Dr. E. W. Smith closed the speaking in five minute talks.

THE PRIMARY.

Owing to the sickness of Mr. T. T. Brooks, one of the poll holders, Mr. M. C. Workman was appointed in his place by Mayor Taylor. The morning opened up with a light rain which froze as it struck the walks and the snow, making it next to impossible to travel. Later the rain become harder and the temperature warmer and a a more sloppy, disagreeable time has rarely been seen in Greensboro. This will undoubtedly cause the vote to be light, together with the idea on the part of many that it will be all right anyway because of the refusal of the anti's to vote or participate in the primary.

Up to noon about four hundred votes had been cast for the dispensary and only one or two against it so far as is known.

As we go to press about five hundred votes have been cast and they are practically all one way.

To The Public.

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 15, '99.

The report of Mr. R. M. Phillips, the editor of the Telegram, who was at our meeting on Monday evening and personally reported the same, presents a perverted and unfair report of the speech of Mr. Moses H. Cone, and is calculated to do our cause and Mr. Cone injustice in the community.

J. L. Fonda, Secretary. W. G. Mebane, Chairman.

Greensboro, Feb. 16, '99.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that we, the undersigned, were at the court house on Monday night and heard Mr. Moses H. Cone's speech, and that the report of the same in The Telegram of Tuesday evening is substantially correct.

The Caucus Last Night.

The election law was considered and discussed last night by the caucus. The bill reported by the committee is generally regarded with great favor, judging from the comments made upon it. Beyond fixing upon August as the time for holding the state election in 1899, no definite action was taken on the bill. Several important law points raised and further consideration was postponed, pending investigation of these questions. The bill will probably be agreed on at the caucus tonight

The state printing provoked a long discussion. The advocates of the lowest bidder were placed in the position of antagonizing organized labor and fair wages to workmen, by those who favored giving the contract to responsible firms who emyloy union printers. While the matter was being warmly debated, bed time had passed, and so many members had left, the caucus adjourned without coming to a vote.

There will be another joint caucus tonight at which time the election law and the public printing matter will probably be disposed of.—Morning Post.

Thief Dropped Dispensary Petition.

Rev A. J. McKelway went home from his office Tuesday night about 11 o'clock. He left his hat and overcoat in the back hall, as usual, and thinking that all of the doors were locked, retired. He discovered yesterday morning that he was minus an overcoat and hat. The back door had been left unlocked, and some one had entered the house, stealing the articles named. In the overcoat pocket was one of the dispensary petitions, with over 100 names on it. The paper fell out of the overcoat, and was found yesterday morning on Pine street and returned to Mr. McKelway. He was sorry to lose his coat, but would have been more so to have lost the petition. —Charlotte Observer.

A PLOT TO BURN MANILA

And Rise Against Americans at The Same Time.

OTIS WANTS REINFORCEMENTS.

One American Trooper Wounded in a Skirmish—Americans Now Control Iloilo—Other Incidents.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

Manila, Feb. 16—An American steamer arrived here today and reports that Aguinaldo controls the capital of Lumar. Leeyte, Negro and Cebu, in Bisayas, have been cowed and disarmed, and being left defenseless, say they will come to the Americans.

A large body of the enemy, presumably on a reconnoitering expedition, were discovered at the right of General King's position near San Pedro and Nacatis this morning. The whole brigade turned out, and after an exchange of volleys the rebels retreated into the jungle and disappeared.

OTIS WANTS REINFORCEMENTS.

Manila, Feb. 16—General Otis was warned of a plot to rise against the Americans and burn the city tonight. Sentries were doubled and extraordinary police precautions taken.

Last night the provost guard seized a hundred armed plotters who were conspiring in a house in the Biunda suburb. The house was full of arms and ammunition; much money and quantities of uniforms and other paraphernalia and a number of incendiary documents.

Aguinaldo's spies are scattered throughout the city and are constantly being arrested for trying to slip the American lines.

There was no doubt a general uprising planned, and it was only postponed in consequence of the American vigilance.

The withdrawing of the California outposts and contracting of American lines is due to the harrassing tactics of the natives.

General Otis has cabled for reinforcements.

OCCASIONAL BRUSHES.

Manila, Feb. 16, 11:20 a. m.—Since the American lines reached the natural defenses around Manila, no further advance has been made. The troops are camping along the line and are in many places temporarily entrenched. Occasional brushes occur between small bodies of the enemy and our scouting parties, which is the only excitement our troops have.

The cavalry encountered the enemy's scouts yesterday near Parenoque and exchanged volleys. Trooper Weltmer, of Troop K, was wounded in the right arm. The transport Buffalo last night used her searchlights and discovered that the enemy were mounting a battery near Parenoque, and fired four small shells at them. The rebels made no response and withdrew their guns to Parenque.

The transports Brutus and Romeolus bring the news from Iloilo that the Americans are clearing vessels there, showing they have assumed control of the place. The rebels burned all records before vacating Iloilo.

It is rumored that the Filipinos in the interior are in sore straits and are now quarrelling among themselves.

Not a Poor Man's Club

"There is a good deal of maudlin talk these days about the saloon being the poor man's club. In the name of the poor, but honest workingmen of this city I resent the imputation. The saloon has been a club, indeed, to beat the brains from the head of too many a poor fellow in intoxication; a club to knock the money from his pocket that should have gone for the clothing of his family and the feeding of his children; a club to level him to the earth again when he would try to rise to honest and independent manhood. There may be laid at the doors of the saloons of this city, too, much of the degradation of manhood, much of the prostitution of womanhood, and much of the damnation of childhood to give them countenance in their law-defying ways.

"The saloon should be restrained, watched, and kept by the strong arm of the law. If by political influence or official corruption it is permitted to flourish, it will sap the very foundations of our commonwealth and drag our highest and holiest hopes down in universal ruin."—From a sermon by Rev Alexander P. Doyle, Paulist Father, New York City.

Notice.

All who have petitions from within the city limits to the legislature against the proposed dispensary law will please return them to the undersigned, care W. G. Mebane & Co, at the earliest opportunity.

JUDGE SHAW STIRS THINGS.

Grand Juror Fined—County Comissioners Presented.

Judge Shaw stirred things in Iredell superior court Friday. His first pass was at a grand juror who so far forgot the dignity and responsibility of his position as to get drunk. A. C. Feimster, of Olin, a member of the grand jury tanked up on Thursday. Friday morning he was arraigned before Judge Shaw, fined $50 and dismissed from the grand jury. The fine was paid. Later in the day Wilburn Steele was drunk and disorderly in the court room and was sent to jail in default of a fine of $10. Later some of his friends paid the fine and Steele was released. These facts are evidence that his honor doesn't take any nonsense in his court.

Then, too, on Friday Judge Shaw gave the commissioners an overhauling. It came to his notice that there was no room in which the juries could retire to make up their verdicts and that they had to take to the open air, notwithstanding the zero weather. Thereupon his honor instructed the grand jury to present the commissioners for failure to provide a jury room and also for failure to provide a court room large enough for the convenience of those who are compelled to attend court, and the grand jury presented the commissioners according to instructions. In the course of his remarks Judge Shaw expressed surprise that so great a county as Iredell had no better court hause.—Statesville Landmark.

THURSDAY, FEB. 16, 1899.

In congress yesterday the canal bill met a defeat. Its fate was settled by a vote in the house of 127 to 109.

Yesterday was the first anniversary of the blowing up of the battleship Maine, and Chicago people took steps looking to making the same a legal holiday.

The attempt of Representative White to blacken the character of Judge Brown by a resolution charging him with drunkenness fell flat and the friends and admirers of the able judge are justly indignant.

It is a pitiable spectacle to see a legislator forced to withdraw an offensive measure under pain of being expelled from the general assembly. Foresight is not always good, but in this case the man should have had better sense.

As the smoke of battle shall clear away let those who have become heated in the fight leave it all behind and as true and loyal citizens who have the best interests of the city at heart, work together for the further moral and industrial advancement of Greensboro.

The foxes have holes and can't find 'em, the rabbits have burrows and have to burrow to get in 'em; but free citizens of Greensboro who do not wear the yoke of a Czar found their way all right to the court house last night, to hear discussions on the dispensary question. The auditorium was literally packed.

A TRIBUTE TO GODFREY.

The World of Music.

As a mark of esteem a number of the conductors and bandsmen of New York arranged to meet Dan Godfrey and his British Guards Band last Saturday night at the Lenox Lyceum. as occasion seldom arises for printing a partial list of these men, the following will perhaps be of interest to local concert goers:

John Philip Sousa	William Hoffman
Victor Herbert	William Bowron
Gustave Kerker	W. G. Rostetter
Henry Schmidt	Max Gabriel
E. Sourrentino	Herman Perlet
Ernest Neyer	Julian Edwards
W. G. Bayne	A. A. Clappe
G. E. Conterno	C. W. Stub
L. Conterno	Henry Gleseman
Felix Eben	F. Rampone
J. M. Landor	Frank Howson
Adolph Bernstein	Homer Bartlett
Dave Braham	John Braham
Herman Hode	W. R. Chapman
Nathan Franko	Walter Damrosch
William Euerst	Isaac Williams
Charles Puernet	Abe Novellic

—New York Mail and Express, July 16, 1898.

Dan Godfrey's Band, The band of which Lieut. Dan Godfrey has been conductor for the best part of half a century, and which is perhaps the most famous band in the world, arrived here from Canada on Saturday and has since been giving concerts at Lenox Lyceum, the reception accorded it at each of its appearances being enthusiastic in the extreme, while the airs played and the draping together of the flags of this country and Great Britain has served to revive the fervour of the people for the suggested British-American Alliance. The members of the band wore their red tunics trimmed with gold braid, whilst Lieutenant Godfrey appears in the black full dress uniform of a British officer. —New York Scottish American, July 6, 1898.

Discovered by a Woman

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night; and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hammick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

The Iceland Geysers.

All the warm tints, from cream to russet, are found in the mineral deposit around the basin of the Great Geyser, Little Geyser, Strokkr (the Churn), and the Little Strokkr, while Blesi (the Blue One) is lined with exquisite white, like porcelain, making it a fitting vessel for the cooking of food and for furnishing boiling water for our tea and coffee. It was so smooth and beautiful that I seemed to be mutilating something rare when I chopped off pieces of its lining, but I knew they would be valuable souvenirs, and the uneasy, bubbling water would soon amend the deficiency.

The mud pools on this plain are the most dangerous, for they spout hot mud diagonally out of the earth. Coming upon them in one direction they are not seen, and many a visitor has gone home with a scalded foot. The hydraulic display is now very fitful, as inconsiderate tourists have injured the spouting fountains by loading stones into them to see them cast out, so you must take your tent with you and encamp on the plain to await the pleasure of their majesties. Blesi will serve you well while waiting. The Great Geyser had not spouted for a week when we were there, and such surliness indicated a near activity. The water spouted unusually high when it finally appeared, 150 feet, and showed all the tints of the rainbow, majestic at the same time and mysterious. It played for 15 minutes, and then its beautiful cascades subsided in feathery mist, a refined and graceful withdrawal. —International.

One Way of Settling It.

An amusing comedy in real life is reported from Paris. A married man was in a cafe near the Opera with his better half one evening and left her for a few moments. While he was absent his wife was insulted. The lady rose from her seat and went to meet her husband. The latter re-entered the cafe in order to chastise the offender. The latter, however, had gone, but the husband found his name and address.

The man was a card printer. The irate husband went to this person's place, but he did not find him at home, so he left his card with the chief shopman, saying, "Your employer will know what that means."

"All right," rejoined the person addressed, "we shall send up to you tomorrow."

On the following day the indignant husband was amazed to receive a collection of 100 visiting cards in his own name, all beautifully printed, accompanying them being the inevitable bill. This helped to close the matter, and it is recorded that after brief explanations on both sides the husband paid the bill, and the master printer apologized to the lady. —Pearson's Weekly.

Cats and Shellfish.

"Did you ever notice the cats about the oyster stands of the city?" asked a gentleman who takes an interest in zoology "They are invariably as fat as butter. That is because they get plenty of shellfish to eat, and, by the way, the fondness of cats for that kind of diet is a mystery which I'd like to hear some evolutionist explain. A cat will go crazy over a shrimp, and it is all the same whether it's a city cat or a hayseed cat that never saw water except in a cistern. It's a taste born in them, like their fear of dogs, and the question is, How the mischief did they acquire it?

"According to the evolution theory, such traits are inherited and traceable to conditions away back toward the beginning of things. That would seem to indicate that the primal cat was a fisher, but how is one to reconcile the idea with the instinctive abhorrence of the tribe for water? Their craving for shellfish is certainly so pronounced that there must be an excellent reason behind it, and, altogether, it is quite a pretty little problem for some savant. It is too hard for me."—Exchange.

Women Nameless In Korea.

The Korean woman has not even a name. In her childhood she receives a nickname, by which she is known in the family and by her near friends, but which when she arrives at maturity is employed only by her parents. To all other persons she is "the sister" or "the daughter" of such and such a one. After her marriage her name is buried —she is absolutely nameless. Her own parents refer to her by mentioning the district into which she has married. Should her marriage be blessed with children she is "the mother" of so and so. If it happens that a woman has to appear in a law court, the judge gives her a special name for use while the case lasts in order to save time and to simplify matters. —National Zeitung.

The Simple Minded Duke.

The Duke of Wellington was largely endowed with that modesty or simplicity which makes a great man almost unconscious of his greatness. He met a lady friend, who was going to see a model of the battle of Waterloo, relates a writer in The Cornhill Magazine, and remarked to her: "Ah, you're going to see Waterloo. It's a very good model. I was at the battle, you know." Surveying a field of battle he could detect almost at a glance the weak points in the disposition of the contending forces, but he could never tell whether his dinner was cooked well or ill.

The Sycamore Tree.

The sycamore has been called the Egyptian fig tree. The date of its being planted in England is not known, but it was very early. Mary, queen of Scots, brought over from France a young sycamore, which she planted in the gardens of Holyrood, and from this have sprung all the beautiful groves of sycamores now to be seen in Scotland.

Ulcerated Teeth.

Never put a hot water bag to an ulcerated tooth. If the dentist is unavailable at the moment, apply an ice bag, which will reduce the swelling, and next to the gum lay a hot raisin.

A DANGEROUS DUTY.

INSPECTING DOUBLE BOTTOMS IN OUR NAVAL VESSELS.

It Is Extremely Hazardous and Trying Work, and Many Precautions Are Necessary to Prevent Loss of Life During the Operation.

There is one phase of the ship life of the American naval officer that is scarcely known to the layman and that can hardly be understood by him as he looks upon the modern ship in all her attractive cleanliness and meets her neatly uniformed officers upon the spotless upper deck. Not only are the parts of the ship in sight kept clean and free from rust and decay, but also those far down, contracted spaces that never see the light of day. These include the cellular compartments between the inner and outer skins of the ship, known technically as the "double bottom," and other places that separate the magazines and various built up structures within the ship from the outer skin.

These narrow compartments are especially susceptible to dampness and rust, and in order that those who have the care of them may do their duty well and so prevent the decay of the ship a system of inspection has been devised, and the inspectors must be, under the naval regulations, commissioned officers. A permanent board of inspection is formed upon each ship, which must consist of one engineer and two line officers. The duty of this board is periodically to make personal inspections of all the parts of the ship, examine everything critically, suggest remedies for any evils that may be found to exist and to report to the commanding officer, for transmission to the navy department, the condition of the vessel in detail.

Uniforms are discarded while making these inspections, and clad in seamen's ordinary working suits these officers crawl upon all fours throughout the length of the bottom of the ship, wriggle snakelike through narrow openings and examine with their own eyes every inch of the surface of the thin steel plates. The paint of these compartments, softened by dampness in some places and by heat and the steam laden air of the boiler rooms in others, rubs off upon the working suits, and an hour's crawling transforms the neat officer into a very sorry spectacle. In some modern navies this duty is performed by the enlisted men, the officers being excused from it, but in our navy the feeling exists that an enlisted man should not be asked to go where an officer is not willing to lead. The result is that "things always work" with the Americans and the efficiency of the fleet is assured.

Numerous precautions must be taken to avoid the risk of losing life while performing this duty, for it is attended with no little danger. The atmosphere of confined spaces entirely or partly closed for a considerable length of time becomes robbed of its oxygen in the formation of rust and is soon made unfit to sustain life. If possible, such compartments are blown out with pure air led through a hose from a blower duct and all manhole plates removed before being entered. A lighted candle is always carried by the inspecting officer upon his crawling tour. If the candle burns dimly or seems upon the point of being extinguished, there is a deficiency of oxygen, and he will immediately seek the nearest opening leading from the compartment and leave it at once. Men are stationed at places as near as possible to him, so that they may hear his voice and render immediate assistance in case of need. No one is allowed to enter any confined space on board ship without an uncovered light, although in addition a portable electric light is carried frequently to render the inspection more thorough.

It not infrequently happens that officers and men become so wedged between bulkheads and beams while performing this duty as to make it extremely difficult to remove them, and more than one officer of the navy is upon the retired list today because of permanent injury to his health contracted while performing this arduous labor. Because of the care exercised it is rare that a life is lost in this service, but in one case at least the rashness of a man proved fatal to him. One of the main boilers of the cruiser Newark, while flagship of the south Atlantic station, having been tightly closed for a month, while empty, in order to preserve it from deterioration, the coppersmith of that vessel, an energetic, faithful man, thought its interior should be examined and, although warned repeatedly never to enter such a boiler without an open light, removed an upper manhole plate and crawled in upon the braces with an electric light. He told no one that he was going into the boiler, and no one was stationed to assist him in case of need. His dead body was found half out and half in the boiler manhole with the electric light still burning brightly within the boiler. He had evidently crawled in upon the braces, felt a faintness creeping over him and had endeavored to regain the open air, but lost consciousness just as life lay within his reach, and so died of asphyxiation.

The air in the boiler had been entirely robbed of its oxygen by the iron of the shell in the formation of rust, and the residuum was unfit to breathe. A lighted candle was snuffed out immediately upon being thrust into the boiler, and this condition prevailed until a lower manhole plate was removed, when the heavy gas ran out as water might, and the air within soon came to be quite pure. No more vivid illustration of the dangers to be encountered in the care of ships afloat and the precautions necessary to be taken in this duty could be given than this incident, which shows that shot and shell and bursting steam pipes are not the only dangers that confront the officers and men of Uncle Sam's navy.—New York Sun.

Opening of the Social Season and Inauguration of the Magnificent

New York & Florida Limited Service

JANUARY 16, 1899.

The opening of the Florida season will be signalized this year as usual by the placing in service of the "New York and Florida Limited" between New York and St. Augustine, Fla This is acknowledged to be the finest train in the world, in its appointments, luxury and detail of finish, and the first of these trains was constructed by the Pullman company for the use of the President of the United States on official tours.

"The New York and Florida Limited" leaves New York daily except Sunday at 11:50 a. m., via the pennsylvania Railroad, the Southern Railway, Florida Central & Peninsular R. R. and the Florida East Coast Railway, and reaches St. Augustine at 2.20 p. m. the following day, making the run, which exceeds 1,000 miles, in little more than twenty-four hours. No train has attracted so much attention, and its fame has been heralded wherever railroading is known. It is composed of Pullman compartment cars, each room being finished in different woods and supplied with private lavatory and toilet; Pullman drawing-room sleeping cars of the latest pattern and finish; a royal club car for the gentlemen; an observation car with a handsome drawing room at its rear opening on to a wide platform; a library car, and dining car, in which the service and the cuisine rank with the finest New York hotels. This "New York and Florida Limited" runs through solid to St. Augustine with the exception of one car which is detached at Columbia, S. C., and goes through to Aiken, which it reaches at 9:35 the next morning after leaving New York, and Augusta at 9:50. Brunswick and Jeckyl Island are conveniently reached by this train at 12 o'clock noon through the perfect connections afforded at Everett, Ga.

There are two other fine trains between New York ond Florida via "The Florida Short Line," one the "Washington and Southwestern Vestibule Limited," leaving New York at 4:20 p. m. daily, and the "United States Fast Mail," leaving New York at 12:05 midnight. The former train carries through Pullman drawing room sleeping cars between New York, Jacksonville and Tampa, and also offers Pullman sleeping car service between New York and Augusta, Ga., with connections for Aiken, Brunswick and Jekyl Island. The latter carries through drawing room sleeping cars between New York and Jacksonville, connecting with parlor car service to points on F. C. & P. R. R. and F. E. C. Ry. Dining cars are operated on all trains of the Southern Ry. "The Florida Short Line" in connection with the Florida East Coast Railway to Miami offers the most direct, quickest and delightful service to Nassau, Havana and Key West. For full information, reservations, etc., apply to J. L. Adams, G. E. A., F. C. & P. R. R., 353 Broadway, New York, or to A. S. Thweatt, E. P. A., Southern Ry, 271 Broadway, New York.

Vienna.

Here we have a proud, imperial city, rather disdainful of trade, aristocratic and easy going, conscious of a long past, its rulers still animated with the conviction that they are the successors of Charlemagne and Otto, looking on Berlin as parvenu, on London as merely commercial, on Paris as half crazy. Excepting in the domain of music, Vienna is not a home of art and culture, but it is a center of dignity and grace and a certain calm air of superiority, which, however, does not offend. It is content to look on while other places explore and write and toil and push and strain; it stands on its rank; it can never forget its 16 quarterings and its claims to high estate.

Vienna is most interesting perhaps as the meeting place between east and west, where the fine gentleman rubs shoulders in the afternoon lounge along the Graben with the Bosnian peasant. The guardian of Europe's ancient order, the center of a great and most interesting empire, the city of leisure and of a pride so lofty that it does not know itself to be pride at all, Vienna is both a charming city and an important political center, as she will continue to be, no matter what is the fate of the Austrian empire.—London Spectator.

M. de Fontenelle's Bright Speeches.

M. —— said of a young fellow who did not see that a lady was in love with him: "You are very young. You can only read large print."

A preacher said: "When Pere Bourdaloue preached at Rouen, he caused a great deal of disorder. The workmen left their shops, the doctors their patients, etc. I preached there the following year and set everything right."

A lady 90 years of age said to M. de Fontenelle, who was 95, "Death has forgotten us." "Hush!" replied Fontenelle, putting his finger on his lips.

A conceited dolt interrupted a conversation by, "I have an idea." A wit remarked, "Astonishing!"

A courier said, "After the death of his majesty there's nothing one can't believe."

M. de Fontenelle, then in his ninety-seventh year, having just paid Mme. Helvetius a thousand pretty compliments, passed her on his way to the table, without seeming to notice her. "See," said Mme. Helvetius, "what account I should take of your gallantry. You went by without looking at me." "Madame," said the old gentleman, "if I had looked at you I should not have passed by you."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Desperate.

"I want a horse and trap for a funeral. Can you let me have them?" inquired the young man in the loud check suit of the cautious liveryman, whose stock occupies the same place in his affections that a wife and family should.

"Well, if you're careful," replied the cautious liveryman slowly.

The turnout was at last ready, and while the young man in the loud check suit was arranging himself in his seat the proprietor patted the horse, an especial favorite, tried the buckles of the harness, shook the shafts and performed all the usual ceremonies due upon such an occasion. Then, as he handed up the reins, he said absentmindedly:

"He's very willing and quick. Be careful not to drive too fast."

The young man regarded him in surprise for a moment, and then asseverated:

"Well, I'm going to keep up with the funeral if it kills him!"—London Answers.

A Bridle to Her.

Polk Miller of Richmond is known as a raconteur of plantation life in the south before the war. One story told by Mr. Miller will well bear repetition. An old darky named Absalom was the favorite attendant of a widower acquaintance of Miller, and as rumor had it that the widower intended taking unto himself a second wife Miller asked Absalom if it were true. Absalom scratched his woolly pate for a moment and replied that he reckoned it was.

"Well," said Miller, "will he take a bridal tour?"

This somewhat puzzled Absalom for an instant; then an inspiration struck him, and he said, "I dunno 'bout a bridle, sah, but when de ole missus was 'live he used to taik a paddle to her; so maybe he taik a bridle to de new one!"—Exchange.

Got Her Snap Shots.

As President McKinley entered the station at Omaha the other day the crowd lined up as usual upon two sides of a passage that was roped off and protected by the police. Half way across the platform a woman with a kodak dodged the guard and sprang out before Mr. McKinley. The chief of police, who led the procession, ordered her away, but the president interfered and took off his hat so that she might get a better view of his face. Backing rapidly a few feet in advance, she got several good snap shots and then disappeared.

He Won Her.

"I learn," she said reproachfully, "that you were devoted to no fewer than five girls before you finally proposed to me. How do I know that you didn't make desperate love to all of them?"

"I did," he replied promptly.

"You did!" she exclaimed.

"Certainly," he returned. "You don't suppose for a minute I would be foolhardy enough to try for such a prize as you are without practicing a little at first, do you?"—Chicago Post.

Alaska's Sky Pillar.

The newly discovered peak in Alaska, which is said to be taller than Mount St. Elias, is away over on the American side of the boundary line and is thus indisputably ours. It will be somewhat rough on Elias to lose his long reputed pre-eminence, but as the great landmark of the international boundary line he may yet get some consolation.—New York Tribune.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepherd, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Howard Gardner.

Several plans for remodeling the house of representatives of congress will be considered by the house committee today.

Unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft.

Conspicuous among the brilliant and beautiful women of her time was the lovely and every way unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin, the first agitator of the question of "woman's rights." No woman, with the exception of Mme. de Stael, made so great an impression on the public mind. Her new and startling doctrines were seized with an avidity scarcely credible at this day, and her famous book, "The Vindication of the Rights of Women," was the theme of the most universal praise and abuse.

Thomas Paine, the author of "The Rights of Man," was one of her familiar acquaintances, but their intercourse was an argument, their views neither on this subject nor any other coincided. In these arguments Paine either lost his temper or became sulky, and the woman champion won an easy victory.

Until her marriage with Mr. Godwin she was the friend of Mrs. Siddons, but she, with the majority of her admirers, declined to sanction this union, for she had married some years before an American called Imlay, to whom she had been a most devoted wife. The man, however, took advantage of the fact that the marriage was only a civil one, performed in Paris, and deserted her. She then married Mr. Godwin, but this act placed her in a position no charity could explain away. Death, however, soon covered her faults with a pitiful oblivion. She left an infant daughter a few hours old, who afterward became the wife of Percy Bysshe Shelley.—Exchange.

Those Black Eyes.

"The small son of the people," says the Philadelphia Record, "and his little sister were inside the great West Philadelphia church for the first time. 'Um—m—my! but it's a beaut place,' he whispered. 'I bet people wot belong here comes every time dey can.' Her breath came to her in little gasps. Her soiled little finger pressed on his with thrilled intensity. Her eyes feasted on the splendid chancel. 'Heagen mus' be nex' door,' she said. They hardly moved throughout the service, and never once let go each other's hands, for it was as a strange land. At last the sweet voiced procession of choir boys came down the aisle. At its head was a slim young seraph, with a face as fair and pure as the linen he wore. Faint, dark circles beneath his eyes completed the ethereal effect.

"'Is dem angels?' the little girl began, but stopped short, surprised at the look on her brother's face.

"'Dat kid in front's Bill Griggs, wot I licked last week fer swipin' t'ings from ole Mrs. Maguire's apple stand. He ain't got over dem black eyes I gev 'im yet. Come on, let's git out.' His face was stern and set as they went. She furtively wiped a tear."

Field and the Street Arabs.

McClure's Magazine relates the following anecdote of Eugene Field, whose fondness for children was his dominant trait:

Never was a man more devoted to his wife. Nevertheless on the day that made her his he was guilty of keeping her waiting for him at the church. The bridal party had assembled and were rapidly becoming uneasy. At length, after an anxious delay, some one went out in search of the missing bridegroom.

He was found on the street a short distance away, down on his knees in the mud, absorbed in settling a dispute between two small street arabs, which had arisen over a game of marbles. Listening with eager interest to the testimony vociferated at either ear by the belligerent parties and their friends and trying to evolve a peace compromise out of a very lively quarrel, he was abruptly reminded that just then he had something more important to attend to, and hastened penitently away to make his anxious bride Mrs. Field.

She Was Unduly Excited.

Bishop Selwyn was a hard worker and never spared himself. He was one day seizing an hour's much needed sleep on the bench of a little roadside station in Derbyshire, en route for a confirmation. A lady of some social distinction and her daughter were on their way to the same rite, the daughter as a confirmee. They went to the solitary porter and said they were afraid to pass the drunken man on the platform, to which the porter replied in tones of much solemnity, "If you please, my lady, it's the lord bishop!"—Mainly About People.

England's "Rose Regiment."

The custom of wearing roses in their headgear by the Lancashire regiment on the anniversary of the battle of Minden originated in a curious manner. On the day of the battle, Aug. 1, 1759, the men passed through a field of roses, each man plucking a rose and placing it in his bonnet, wearing the flower during the fight. This commenced the custom which obtains at the present day of wearing roses on the anniversary of the battle.

The Sultan's Throneroom.

The throneroom of the sultan at Constantinople is a gorgeous sight. The gilding is unequaled by any other building in Europe, and from the ceiling hangs a superb Venetian chandelier, the 200 lights of which make a gleam like that of a veritable sun. At each of the four corners of the room tall candelabra in baccarat glass are placed, and the throne is a huge seat covered with red velvet, and having arms and back of pure gold.

Rosebery's Definition of Memory.

Here is a joli mot of Lord Rosebery's—would one ever expect mots from Lord Rosebery?—told in our garden by a woman who heard him say it at a dinner. Some one asked him what memory was. "Memory," said Lord Rosebery, "is the feeling that steals over us when we listen to our friends' original stories."—Harper's Bazar.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by C. E. Holton.

An Honest Medicine for La Grippe,

George W. Waitt of South Gardiner, Mo., says: "I have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vender. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one 50-cent bottle and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by C. E. Holton.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe and its exhausting after effects. Never fails. Howard Gardner.

Brothers Parted by Death.

Hugh McLean, Esq., of Lillington, Harnett county, died on the 9th inst., in the 90th year of his age. He was one of the noted twin brothers, he and his brother Hector who survives him, being, so far as is known, the oldest twins in the world. Neither of the brothers was ever married. They were devoted to each other and have always lived together, being separated only by death. Both were men of sterling integrity, honored and respected by all who knew them. The writer has heard that they made their coffins several years ago and have been keeping them in their home, hoping that both would be needed at the same time. It is sad to see such tender, brotherly ties, cemented by ninety years of affectionate association, rudely broken by death.

Passengers on the Atlantic & Yadkin train from Mt. Airy today, report that it was snowing between Mt. Airy and Stokesdale this morning.

Mr. W. R Land has removed his real estate office from the rear of the People's Savings Bank to room No.5. Katz building, where he will be glad to have his friends, and all people having business with him, call.

Superintendent Grimsley requests us to announce that there will be no more school until Monday. The attendance yesterday and today was of course small, it being too rough for the small children, who are largely in the majority, to get out.

C. L. Shaw & Bro. have a change in their ad today. Mr. C. L. Shaw remarked, "advertising in the Telegram certainly pays. If any one doubts it, come to our shop and see the work received and turned out daily since we commenced to advertise."

The people of North Carolina are having pleasant weather if they only knew it. A letter to Mr. John Lewis from a friend who formerly lived here but who is now a resident of Moosomin, North West Territory, Canada, says that on the night before the letter was written the mercury there was 58 degrees below zero.

"Perry," the blind pianist, needs no introduction to the people of Greensboro, he having given concerts before at the Greensboro Female College. It is wonderful how pleasingly he renders the finest selections from the most renowned authors. He is master of the piano and everyone who hears him is amazed at his wonderful playing and what perfect control he has of the instrument without his eyesight to guide him. Hear him Saturday night at the opera house.

A Case of Assault.

Squire Eckle is trying an interesting case this afternoon. Emily Vanstory, colored, is charged with assaulting Mr. John Suites, a feeble white man 79 years old. During the recent snow Mr. Suites, it seems was compelled to push the Vanstory woman's child out of path, in order to pass without falling. The childs mother heard of it and taking a buggy whip, pursued Mr. Suites. Coming up with him she beat him severely with the heavy end of the whip and he, being too feeble to offer resistance received several bad cuts and bruises on the head.

The defence is represented by Col. John N. Staples and the prosecution conducted by Col. John A. Barringer.

Later—Squire Eckle bound the defendant over to court. She could not give bond and refused to go to jail, whereupon she and Officer Scott had a few rounds in Squire Eckle's court. Mr. Scott got an assistant and the wrathy amazon was carried to jail by force.

State Librarian Nominated.

The democratic joint caucus last night nominated Mr. M. O. Sherill, of Catawba county, to be state librarian. Mr. Sherrill received 70 otes on the last ballot, the next highest being Mr. Henry King, of Greenville, who received 21 votes.

Mr. Sherrill is an old Confederate veteran who lost a leg on the field of battle. He has served as clerk of the court in his county and six years ago represented his district in the state senate. He is a man of ability, and is well qualified for the place to which he will be chosen—one withal of no small responsibility and importance. —News and Observer.

When passing a switch on the Randleman yard the engine, for some cause ran off the track and came near turning over before it could be stopped Thinking that the delay would be little more than an hour the passengers remained on the train and hours kept passing until late in the night, when the engine was abandoned. The High Point and Randleman road being a branch of the Southern an engine was sent down from Greensboro to bring the cars to High Point.

AS TO OUTSIDE BARROOMS.

The County Commissioners Will Protect the Citizens.

The agreement below has been entered into and duly signed by the county commissioners of Guilford county, which explains itself and should set at rest any idea or belief that if a dispensary is established for Greensboro the barrooms will move just on the outside and give more trouble than if located where the police can keep an eye on them. The following is the agreement:

"We agree, in case the dispensary system is adopted in Greensboro, not to depart from our past policy of granting no licenses for the sale of liquor in Guilford county.

Trains From Washington.

Number 37 the southbound vestibule due here at 7:05 was run today, it being the first train from Washington since Monday morning. The accumulation of mail and the number of passengers who have been delayed, were such that the train had to be run in four sections, the first arriving here shortly after 10 o'clock. The other three sections were run about an hour apart. The trouble caused by the cold weather and snow is about removed now and trains will soon be running on time. Freight traffic was resumed today.
